

SATURDAY NOV 7TH

LEVEL I

9:30am - Noon at Charlie Brown's Steakhouse
 You'll begin your day with a brief introduction about animal communication. Colleen will share with you: what it is, how it works for her, and what you can use it for. Next you do a grounding, then 2 exercises and a hypnotic trance session designed specifically for this seminar. These are designed to open your awareness to your own telepathic abilities. We'll discuss Universal Language: what it is and how best to question animals; as well as what kinds of answers you might expect. You'll practice sending and receiving thought forms, which can vary with species. You will also try your new skills out by communicating with an animal you meet via their picture as you swap personal photos of living animal companions.

Noon to 12:45pm - Lunch Break

1pm - 2:30 pm at the Zoo

(Travel time is about 15 minutes to get to the Zoo) Gathering in the Elephant/Camel barn, you will be briefed as to which Zoo residents are prepared to participate and you will choose from a number of different species. This will allow you to learn the differences in each being and species. You will learn the difference between working with animals at a distance vs. face-to-face.

2:45pm - 4pm

Reconvening at the restaurant we'll share experiences. Zoo staff will be on hand to share undisclosed information about each animal selected for the day's events to help validate your experiences and gain confidence in your skills. Discussions and closing statements will end our day.

A Certificate of Completion of Animal Communication Level I with Zoo Emphasis will be earned at days' end and will follow in about a month, along with an Animal Whispers Newsletter with follow-up info from the distance animal's people that you worked with during the seminar.

SUNDAY NOV 8TH

LEVEL II - PRE-REQUISITE: LEVEL I

9:30 am to Noon at Charlie Brown's Steakhouse
 Working with sick or injured animals is a speciality in it's own right, requiring patience and the ability to think of the right questions to ask them. This workshop will teach you how to deepen and intensify your abilities to communicate. We'll discuss the types of health issues an animal may experience, how to keep yourself grounded and how to curb sympathy. We'll discuss how to gather symptoms from animals, which can be relayed to healthcare professionals to provide them with a more complete picture of what is wrong, where it hurts, what it feels like and what the animal thinks caused it. You will also gain their outlook on their own prognosis. You will work with distant animals that Colleen will provide and work with any of your own sick/ill/traumatized animals, if you have one.

Noon to 12:45 - Lunch Break

1 pm - 2:30pm at the Zoo

Gathering in the Elephant/Camel barn, you will be briefed as to which Zoo residents are prepared to speak with you regarding their own health issues. Popcorn Park Zoo Staff will be on hand to help guide you to those animals if needed. Your work with these animals will be used by the staff to gain insights only an animal communicator can convey, helping the staff better help the physical, mental and emotional needs of each animal.

2:45 pm - 4 pm

We will reconvene at the restaurant to share experiences and health information learned from each animal. We will share info gathered from the animals with Zoo staff that will be on hand. Discussions and closing statements will end our day. A Certificate of Completion for Level II Animal Communication will be earned at days end which will follow in a month with an Animal Whispers Newsletter with follow-up info from the distance animal's people.

LEARN HOW TO SHARE IN THE WISDOM AND SPIRITUALITY
INHERENT IN ALL LIVING BEINGS.

- Develop your own inborn telepathic ability and apply it in many ways.
- Learn animal communication techniques for general info and fact finding sessions to help the sick or injured animal.
- Develop a telepathic bridge between yourself and different Zoo species, including your own animal companions.
- Find out animals' thoughts on life and their companions—often getting to the root of behavior problems.
- Learn how different species look at life in different ways and how the residents of Popcorn Park Zoo feel about Zoo life.
- Develop your intuitive skills to communicate with animals in person and over distances.

“It is my deepest belief that every human is born with the innate ability to communicate with animals—it’s just that most of us have forgotten how. I hope to help you reawaken that talent so that you and your animals can enjoy a deeper, more loving life together.” C. Nicholson

“Where do elephants go when they die? Colleen Nicholson must know.” New York Times

“Colleen Nicholson’s communications with animals have led to a book that will comfort anyone who has loved and lost a beloved companion. To those who hire her to contact the animals they care about, she is, quite simply, the cat’s meow.”

St. Paul Pioneer Press

ANIMAL WELLNESS &
POPCORN PARK ZOO
PRESENTS

A very special event supporting the abused or abandoned residents at Popcorn Park.

Come experience how you can re-learn to communicate with the animals about you! You’ll be amazed at what insights they’ll offer about their life and health, and how communicating will deepen your bonds and understanding of each other. A portion of the seminar profits is gifted back to the residents of Popcorn Park Zoo.

Longtime animal communicator and author of “Crossing the Rainbow Bridge: Animal Journeys to Heaven,” Colleen Nicholson has clients all over the world. She has been heard on WGN National Radio, and worldwide radio shows. She has been quoted in the Sunday New York Times and The Jerseyana Press for her work with Popcorn Park Zoo where Colleen works regularly with the rescued animals and zoo staff. She has also worked with numerous animals connected directly to the tragedies of 9/11, most of which were for the Associated Humane Societies.

Now Colleen will share her gift to help you uncover your connection to animals in the natural world.

This workshop will teach you how to hone your inherent ability to communicate with other species.

During these intensive workshops, you will learn the benefits of animal communication. You will also learn several techniques to open your awareness and how they can help you gain a deeper insight each day into the world of universal language in conversation with the animals you know and love.
